BOY SCOUTS TO MOBILIZE HERE MAY 30

President Roosevelt Will Review Troops And Award Badges.

SHANNON WILL GIVE MEDALS

More than thirteen hundred Boy Scouts of the York-Adams area will mobilize at Gettysburg May 30, 1934, to respect the expressed wish of President Franklin R. Roosevelt, when the chief executive of the nation comes here to deliver a Memorial Day address in the Gettysburg National cemetery.

Scout Executive Ray F. Zander, of York, today announced the mobilization of scouts here.

The occasion for the mobilization came about through the expressed wish of the president.

When scouts from the York-Adams area recently visited the white house and were received by the president from whom they received life, star and eagle awards Mr. Roosevelt expressed the wish that he might see the scouts at Gettysburg when he comes here May 30.

Approve Plan

The executive committee of the York-Adams area was informed of the president's wish and the mobilization plan was suggested. The committee immediately approved the suggestion and instructions were sent out to all boy scouts in the area to prepare for the event.

There are 1,329 boy scouts in Adams and York counties and it is believed that practically all will be here for the occasion next May. Most of the scouts will be in uniform.

The scout committee in charge of the mobilization will work in cooperation with the local Sons of Veterans' committee who are in charge of the Memorial Day exercises here.

The president is expected to review the scouts and to award eagle badges to such scouts as qualify for this honor up to May 30.

This is the first time such a mobilization of scouts has taken place in Gettysburg with the president of the United States as a guest.

No Eagles Here

Gettysburg scouts, who have achieved the life scout award, will not be able to qualify for the eagle award by next May, one year being necessary before a scout can meet all the necessary requirements.

Local residents, interested in scouting, are hoping that the executive committee will also include life scouts in the list of those to receive badges from the president.

Next Wednesday afternoon Lieutenant-Governor Shannon will present star badges to four Gettysburg scouts who were unable to reach Washington for the presentation of the awards by the president. The scouts had left here but were forced to return because of the dangerous condition of the roads.

Lieutenant Governor Shannon will present badges to Lloyd and Gilbert Reed, David Thomas and Fred Knox.

Others from Hanover and York will also receive badges.

H. S. OPENS CAGE SEASON TONIGHT

Red Lion Dribblers Face Maroons In Opening Tilt In Local Court.

Gettysburg high school basketball team will make its debut tonight when it clashes with Red Lion high on the local floor.

Always a strong contender in the York county interscholastic league, Red Lion is reported to be represented by a strong outfit again this season and will undoubtedly force the Maroons to the limit.

Although refusing to reveal the starting lineup, Coach George Forney indicated the team would be picked from Trostle Kitzmiller, Socia, Fischer, Yingling, Everhart, Shaner, Bushman, M. Knox and Sachs.

The Maroons have been practicing daily for three weeks and are anxious for their first tilt. Following this game the locals will be idle for two weeks, next facing Mechanicsburg high here January 5.

Biglerville high schools undefeated basketball team, will meet the Maroon and White residents in the preliminary game at 7 o'clock.

Doug Jr. Hated To Leave Her

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., says he never would have left England and Gertrude Lawrence, British actress, if it hadn't been necessary to return to Hollywood to make a picture. A friend said the couple would announce their engagement after May 14. (Associated Press Photo)

Mother, New Born Babe Die

Mrs. Esther (Rex) Gardner, 17, wife of Clarence W. Gardner, of Gardner R. 1, died at the Warner hospital this morning at 3:15 o'clock following the birth of a son, Clarence W. Gardner, Jr., who also died.

Mrs. Gardner is survived by her husband, her parents Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rex Gardner R. 1, two brothers, Hiram E. Rex, Aspers R. 1, Orion G. Rex, Gardner R. 1, and one sister, Miss Maud C. Rex, at home, and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Heier, Bendersville, and Mrs. Annie E. Ross, of Mt. Holly Springs.

Mrs. Gardner was a member of the Bendersville Lutheran church. Brief funeral services at the home, Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, with further services at the Mt. Victory United Brethren church, the Rev. O. D. Coble and the Rev. Mr. Snyder officiating. Interment in the cemetery adjoining the church.

RENAMES FIVE MEN TO P. S. C.

Governor Reappoints Men Senate Refused To Confirm; May Serve To 1935.

Harrisburg, Dec. 22 (AP).—Governor Pinchot today reappointed five public service commissioners who failed of confirmation in the special session of the legislature just ended.

Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beaman administered the oath of office.

The commissioners reappointed are: C. Jay Goodenough, Emporium, chairman; P. Stephen Stahlnecker, Harrisburg; Simon J. Goldberg, Wilkes-Barre; George W. Woodruff, Berwyn, and Frederick P. Gruenberg, Philadelphia.

The administration's effort to force confirmation failed in the senate this week when the battle that has been brewing for months came to a climax with a motion to discharge the executive nominations committee. Commissioner Stahlnecker was chosen for the test vote but the senate refused 27 to 19 to force the committee to re-nominat his appointment for floor action.

Unless confirmed in the meantime by the senate the commissioners will leave office with the expiration of Governor Pinchot's term on the third Monday in January, 1935.

Former Countian Dies In Jersey

Miss Cordelia Musselman, a former resident of Fairfield, died at her home in Paulsboro, New Jersey, Thursday, of complications.

Funeral services will be held at Paulsboro, with burial in the Union cemetery, Fairfield, at noon, Sunday. The Rev. C. M. Coffelt, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, will officiate.

Ex-Service Men Meeting Called For 7 P. M. Saturday

All ex-service men in Gettysburg and Adams county, whether employed or unemployed, are urged to meet at the Albert J. Lentz American Legion post room, Baltimore street, Saturday evening at 7 o'clock. The former service men will be asked to register at the meeting and are urged to bring their discharges with them.

SCHOOLS CLOSE FOR HOLIDAYS

Parochial School Program Is Presented This Morning By Children.

Gettysburg's public and parochial schools closed for the Christmas holidays today and will not reopen until Tuesday morning, January 2.

Christmas programs were given by various grades in the public schools this morning.

A program of Christmas exercises was presented by the primary pupils of St. Francis Xavier parochial school this morning.

The program included a welcome, by Caroline Codori, son and across primary children; recitation, Francis Everhart, "X m a Dolls," ten little girls; recitation, Norman Groff; hymn, pupils of the school; song, pupils of the school, and remarks by the Rev. Father Mark E. Stock. Gifts were presented by Santa Claus.

Mary Clare Myers, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Myers, played the accompaniment for all musical numbers.

Mayers Witness In Civil Action

Patrolman F. L. Mayers, of the local sub-station of the state highway motor patrol, returned from Warren Thursday evening, where he was a witness in a civil action arising out of an automobile accident in Warren county on September 12, 1931. Mayers had investigated the accident.

Dillsburg Man Dies Thursday

J. Calvin Koch, retired lumberman of Dillsburg, died Thursday at his home at the age of 75.

Formerly in the lumber business at St. Marys, Elk county, he returned to Dillsburg, his native territory, nine years ago. During his residence in St. Marys, he served as postmaster there for twelve years, being appointed by President Theodore Roosevelt.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Edith M. Koch; two nephews, L. W. Prosser, of Enola, and L. C. Prosser, of Camp Hill; and a niece, Mrs. H. L. Junkins, of York Springs.

Funeral services at his home in Dillsburg Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. George A. Livingston, pastor of Dillsburg Lutheran church. Burial will be in Dillsburg cemetery.

Couple Observes Golden Wedding

Both 71 years old and both enjoying good health, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Taylor will observe their golden wedding anniversary at their home in Bendersville Saturday.

Both Mr. Taylor, a retired farmer, and Mrs. Taylor, whose maiden name was Miss Alice Showers, of Bendersville, have always resided in Adams county.

The couple were married in Bendersville, Pa., in 1863, and have since lived in the same home.

AMAS BASKETS AN MONEY TO BE DISTRIBUTED

Elks, Legion, Firemen And Several Others Give Foodstuffs To Needy.

The spirit of unselfish giving for which Gettysburgians are noted again made itself manifest here today with the approach of Christmas.

Various organizations of Gettysburg are planning to distribute baskets of provisions, so that none of the town's deserving needy will go hungry on Christmas.

In addition to the provisions which will be distributed over the week-end, the Scale fund will be given to the deserving poor of Gettysburg at the arbitration room at the court house, Saturday morning, between 11 and 12 o'clock.

Red Cross Helps

The Elks will make their distributions on Saturday. The exact number of baskets to be distributed by the lodge has not yet been determined.

The Legion's 30 baskets of food will be distributed among deserving ex-service men of Gettysburg and Adams county today and Saturday.

The Loyal Order of Moose will distribute 25 baskets of provisions.

The Adams county chapter of the Red Cross will not distribute baskets this year but is cooperating with the organizations which are putting out baskets so that there will be as few duplications as possible.

Bigler Pushes CWA Projects

Progress is being made on two of the civil works projects submitted by Biglerville.

At the Biglerville high school eighteen men are painting the interior and exterior of the high school building, grading the school grounds and laying a concrete pavement. In addition, two standard-size tennis court are being laid out, a shoulder is being put around the athletic field to prevent washing and the athletic is being filled in.

One hundred and fifty feet of the 342-foot concrete sidewalk has been completed today.

Preliminary work on the real-estate map and traffic survey of Biglerville and vicinity have been done, and this project will gain momentum next Tuesday.

A district engineer for the local CWA administrator supervises all projects while in progress at least once a day.

AUXILIARY PARTY

The woman's auxiliary of the Spanish War Veterans' chapter here will hold a Christmas party for members of the auxiliary, their husbands and children at the Odd Fellows' lodge room, center square, this evening at 8 o'clock. Gifts will be distributed during the exercises.

Woman Clerk Weds Virginians

After leaving the couple a marriage license, Mrs. Elmer W. Warren, deputy clerk of the courts, officiated at the wedding of Miss Sylvia B. Miller and Lodore L. Geiber, both of Richmond, Virginia, Thursday afternoon.

A marriage license was issued at the office of C. F. Palmer, clerk of the courts, this morning, to George E. Baumgardner, Liberty township, and Phoebe G. Boserman, of Reading township.

MUSEUM GETS LINDY PLANE

30-Day Food Supply Also Goes To American Museum Of Natural History.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—The plane in which Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, pilot, and Anne Lindbergh, navigator, completed a 20,000 mile survey tour on Tuesday will spend the rest of its days in the American Museum of Natural History.

F. Trubee Davison, president of the museum, announced Thursday that the Lindberghs had presented their ship to that institution.

Goes Into Retirement

Like an old race horse pastured after victories on the track, the plane—called "Dianthus" after the Eskimoes, who thought it was a "great bird"—will be placed on exhibition some time between Christmas and New Year's in the museum's new Hall of Ocean Life.

At present the plane is in a hangar at College Point, where the Lindberghs ended their aerial survey of possible transatlantic routes.

In addition to the plane itself, the Lindberghs gave the museum all the equipment used in the flight—hundreds of items ranging from electrically heated flying toys for Arctic travel to tropical sun helmets used when America's first flying couple crossed the Atlantic at the equator.

Rations To Be Displayed

Even the Lindberghs' thirty-day emergency food supply will go to the museum, although officials did not say what was to be done with that.

"These gifts," said Mr. Davison, "were as unexpected as they are valuable and welcome. They will form a valuable nucleus for the collections in the geographic hall, which is one of the projects of the museum's future program."

He said the flight of the Lindberghs completed Tuesday was "one of the most important in history."

FOLLOWS FATHER'S POLICY

In line with a policy fixed by his father, the late Frank Eberhart, upon acquiring ownership of the Eagle hotel forty-eight years ago, George P. Eberhart, now proprietor, announces in the advertising columns of today's Gettysburg Times that his up room will be closed all day on Christmas.

SACQUE FUNERAL

Funeral services for William L. Saucke, of Arundelville, who died at the West Side sanatorium, York, Thursday morning, will be held Sunday afternoon. Friends may call at the Saucke home Saturday evening from 7 until 9 o'clock.

Baltimore Bank Robbed Of $14,100

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—Four middle-aged men, each carrying a heavy pistol today held up the west Baltimore branch of the Calvert bank and got away with $14,100.

One shot was fired at the ceiling as the men entered the bank.

The bank manager and two clerks were ordered to raise their hands and stand away from the counter while the robbers scooped up all the money they could find into a waste paper basket.

Health Survey Will Be Made Throughout Adams County as A New Civil Works Project

Cooperating with the civil works administration and the United States public health service, the Pennsylvania department of health has asked Dr. Eugene Elkin, East Berlin, Adams county medical director, and John H. Deatrick, Bendersville, county health officer, to make an immediate sanitary survey of Gettysburg and Adams county.

The purpose of the survey is to remedy unsanitary conditions particularly the construction of sanitary outside toilets. Doctor Elkin and Mr. Deatrick have been informed that projects for remedial sanitary work are to be submitted immediately to the civil works administrator so that immediate employment may be given country workers.

Preliminary surveys have already been made by the health authorities in East Berlin, Abbottstown, Oxford township, McSherrystown, York Springs, Bendersville and Fairfield, and within several days the entire county will be covered.

Make Survey List

Doctor Elkin and Mr. Deatrick have been asked to prepare lists of county fair grounds, tourist camps, roadside stands, tourist homes, summer resorts and camps, as well as individual properties where sanitary features are needed. Health officers in various communities are urged to suggest needed projects to Doctor Elkin or Mr. Deatrick.

The primary object of the campaign is to secure work for the unemployed as quickly as possible, according to H. P. Bronson, assistant director in charge of field work and community sanitation for the civil works administration at Harrisburg.

Three Leap To Safety From Burning Home

A dropped coal oil lamp and fire which followed forced three persons to flee through second story windows in their night clothes to escape flames which early this morning destroyed the residence of Charles Potter, just beyond the borough limits of New Oxford, Lincoln Way West.

Mr. Potter arose about 1 o'clock this morning and was carrying the lamp through the house when in some unexplained manner the lamp slipped from his grasp. Flames immediately enveloped the room following the explosion. Together with his wife and sister-in-law, Miss Millie Loftus, Mr. Potter was forced to escape from the flames via a second story window.

So quickly did the flames envelop the house that not a single piece of household goods could be salvaged.

The New Oxford fire company responded to the alarm and for two hours played two streams of water on the burning structure. Loss was estimated at $5,500, which was partially covered by insurance.

County Depositors Will Benefit Under New Federal Plan

The deposit liquidation division of the federal government now has plans under way to release to depositors of banks closed since January 1, 1930, the maximum amount of funds available based upon a new appraisal of said banks' assets. To this end the government, with the assistance of divisional committees, and with the approval of William D. Gordon, state secretary of banking, is moving forward with all speed.

The Institution Savings Institution and the Farmers' and Merchants' bank of Dillsburg are affected under the new plan.

Silk Production Is Ordered Cut

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP).—Hugh S. Johnson today ordered that silk production be cut 75 per cent for the next 30 days complying with a request of the silk cycle authority.

The NRA order also permits the silk cycle authority to regulate particular conditions by temporarily forbidding hours for periods not to exceed 60 days.

COURT UPSETS EXTRADITION OF LOCAL MAN

Judge McPherson Overrules Governor Pinchot's Writ Today.

JOHN SLAYBAUGH NOT A FUGITIVE

Judge Donald P. McPherson, in granting John E. Slaybaugh, of Gettysburg, a battlefield guide, his freedom under a writ of habeas corpus in court here this morning, overruled Governor Gifford Pinchot who signed an extradition order for Slaybaugh's return to Ohio to face an indictment, charging him with failing to support a minor son.

Walter H. Underwood, sheriff of Richland county, of which Mansfield, Ohio, is the county seat, was in court here ready to take Slaybaugh back to Ohio where he was indicted by the April grand jury this year for non-support of his minor son, had Judge McPherson denied the local man his right to a writ of habeas corpus.

Signed In New York

Governor Pinchot signed the executive order for Slaybaugh's extradition from his bed in a New York hospital on Tuesday, about a month after a hearing on Governor White's application for the writ was held before the deputy state attorney general at Harrisburg.

At this morning's hearing on the writ of habeas corpus, asked for by Slaybaugh, the local battlefield guide was represented by J. Donald Swope, Esq., Slaybaugh's former wife, the former Miss Flossie A. Shultz, of Gettysburg, who has since re-married and resides in Mansfield, was represented by a Mr. Nichols, of Mansfield.

Mr. Swope called Mrs. Duff, the former Miss Shultz, to the stand to answer a few questions in cross-examination. She testified that Slaybaugh was last in Mansfield in June, 1931, and that she did not lay the information against him, charging non-support, until the spring of this year.

Law Interpretation

She also testified that the action was laid when Slaybaugh failed to make the non-support payments which, she said, stopped in the spring of 1932.

The dispute at today's hearing was the interpretation of section 3 of the state extradition law of 1927, which reads as follows:

"The governor of this state may also surrender on demand of the executive authority of another state any person in this state charged on indictment found in such other state with committing an act in this state intentionally resulting in a crime in such other state and the provisions of this act not otherwise inconsistent shall apply to such cases notwithstanding that the accused was not in that state at the time of the commission of the crime and has not fled therefrom."

Not a Fugitive

Mr. Swope argued that under his interpretation of the section, Slaybaugh was not a fugitive from justice in Ohio and that his failure to make the non-support payments did not constitute a crime.

Mr. Nichols, who admitted that the Pennsylvania state act was the basis of the hearing, argued that Slaybaugh's failure to contribute the payments constituted a crime.

Judge McPherson and the opposing attorneys pointed out that an interpretation of the section has never been given by the superior courts of Pennsylvania.

As a result, Judge McPherson ruled that Slaybaugh had not committed a crime in failing to continue the support payments and was not a fugitive from justice.

Mr. Nichols, who was assisted by District Attorney John P. Bart, took exception to the court's order. He intimated afterwards that the state of Ohio probably would appeal from Judge McPherson's order and throw the action into the Pennsylvania superior courts.

IN NEW POSITION

Miss Telle Abramson, who has been with Kuyper, Inc., York, for the past few years in the capacity of saleslady, is now with Charles Bear and company, York, in their sports department. Miss Abramson is well known in Gettysburg.

$111 IN CASH GOES TO POOR

The spirit of unstinted giving for which Gettysburgians are noted again made itself manifest here today with the approach of Christmas.

Various organizations of Gettysburg are planning to distribute baskets of provisions, so that none of the town's deserving needy will go hungry on Christmas.

In addition to the provisions which will be distributed over the week-end, the Stahle fund will be given to the deserving poor of Gettysburg at the arbitration room at the court house, Saturday morning, between 11 and 12 o'clock.

$111 In Cash
D. C. Stallsmith, who distributes the Stahle fund to the borough, today said $111.33 will be distributed this year.

The Gettysburg fire company, the Gettysburg lodge of Elks, the Albert J. Lentz American Legion post, St. James' Lutheran church and the Mothers' club are among organizations here which will distribute baskets of provisions over the week-end.

Arthur R. Buehler, chairman of the fire company's Christmas basket committee, today urged firemen and others, who desire to contribute staple groceries for the baskets, to bring them to the fire engine house this evening. The firemen's baskets will be distributed on Sunday. The firemen expect to deliver between 40 and 50 baskets of foodstuffs.

Red Cross Helps
The Elks will make their distributions on Saturday. The exact number of baskets to be distributed by the lodge has not yet been determined.

The Legion's 30 baskets of food will be distributed among deserving ex-service men of Gettysburg and Adams county today and Saturday.

The Loyal Order of Moose will distribute 25 baskets of provisions. The Adams county chapter of the Red Cross will not distribute baskets this year, but is cooperating with the organizations which are putting out baskets so that there will be as few duplications as possible.

Bigler Pushes CWA Projects

Progress is being made on two of the civil works projects submitted by Biglerville.

At the Biglerville high school eighteen men are painting the interior and exterior of the high school building, grading the school grounds and laying a concrete pavement. In addition, two standard-size tennis court are being laid out, a shoulder is being put around the athletic field to prevent washing and the athletic is being filled in.

One hundred and fifty feet of the 342-foot concrete sidewalk has been completed today.

Preliminary work on the real-estate map and traffic survey of Biglerville and vicinity have been done, and this project will gain momentum, next Tuesday.

A district engineer for the local CWA administrator supervises all projects while in progress at least once a day.

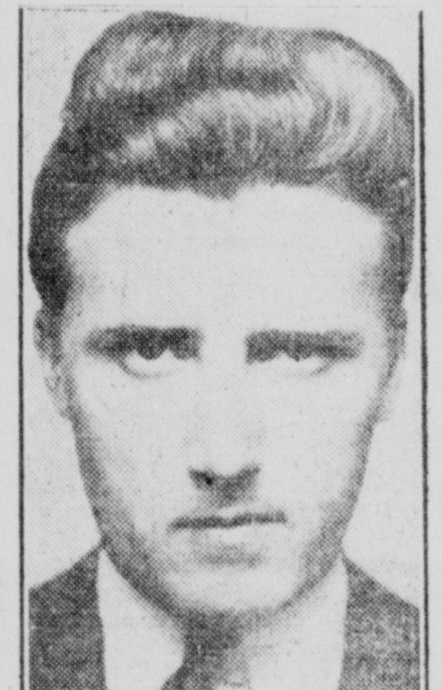

AUXILIARY PARTY

The woman's auxiliary of the Spanish War Veterans chapter here will hold a Christmas party for members of the auxiliary, their husbands and children at the Odd Fellows lodge room, center square, this evening at 8 o'clock. Gifts will be distributed during the exercises.

Woman Clerk Weds Virginians

After issuing the couple a marriage license, Mrs. Elmer W. Warren, deputy clerk of the courts, officiated at the wedding of Miss Sylvia B. Zulver and Isadore L. Gerber, both of Richmond, Virginia, Thursday afternoon.

A marriage license was issued at the office of C. P. Palmer, clerk of the courts, this morning, to George E. Baumgardner, Liberty township, and Phoebe G. Bosserman, of Reading township.

MUSEUM GETS LINDY PLANE

30-Day Food Supply Also Goes To American Museum Of Natural History.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—The plane in which Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, pilot, and Anne Lindbergh, navigator, completed a 20,000 mile survey tour on Tuesday will spend the rest of its days in the American Museum of Natural History.

F. Trubee Davison, president of the museum, announced Thursday that the Lindberghs had presented their ship to that institution.

Goes Into Retirement
Like an old race horse pastured after victories on the track, the plane—called "Vagabond"—will be placed on exhibition some time between Christmas and New Year's in the museum's new Hall of Ocean Life.

At present the plane is in a hangar at College Point, where the Lindberghs ended their aerial survey of possible transatlantic routes.

In addition to the plane itself, the Lindberghs gave the museum all the equipment used in the flight—hundreds of items ranging from electrically heated flying boots for Arctic travel to tropical sun helmets used when America's first flying couple crossed the Atlantic at the equator.

Rations To Be Displayed
Even the Lindbergh's thirty-day emergency food supply will go to the museum, although officials did not say what was to be done with that.

He said the flight of the Lindberghs completed Tuesday was "one of the most important in history."

FOLLOWS FATHER'S POLICY

In line with a policy fixed by his father, the late Frank Eberhart, upon acquiring ownership of the Eagle hotel thirty-eight years ago, George F. Eberhart, now proprietor, announces in the advertising columns of today's Gettysburg Times that his tap room will be closed all day on Christmas.

Health Survey Will Be Made Throughout Adams County as A New Civil Works Project

Cooperating with the civil works administration and the United States public health service, the Pennsylvania department of health has asked Dr. Eugene Elgin, East Berlin, Adams county medical director, and John H. Deatrick, Biglerville, county health officer, to make an immediate sanitary survey of Gettysburg and Adams county.

The purpose of the survey is to remedy unsanitary conditions, particularly the construction of sanitary outside toilets. Doctor Elgin and Mr. Deatrick have been informed that projects for remedial sanitary work are to be submitted immediately to the civil works administrator so that immediate employment may be given county workmen.

Preliminary surveys have already been made by the health authorities in East Berlin, Abbottstown, Oxford township, McSherrystown, York Springs, Bendersville and Fairfield, and within several days the entire county will be covered.

Seek Other Projects
Borough councils and township supervisors are being urged by the local health authorities to present health and sanitation projects to James R. McConaghie, Adams county civil works administrator, as soon as possible.

Under the civil works administration, all labor costs for the improvement of unsanitary conditions will be borne by the CWA, if materials are furnished by the property owners, the boroughs or the townships.

Besides the installation of sanitary outside toilets, the health authorities are urging as other forms of community sanitation the elimination of garbage dumps, the removal of stagnant water and waste water nuisances.

County Depositors Will Benefit Under New Federal Plan

The deposit liquidation division of the federal government now has plans under way to release to depositors of banks closed since January 1, 1930, the maximum amount of funds available based upon a new appraisal of said banks' assets. To this end the government, with the assistance of divisional committees, and with the approval of William D. Gordon, state secretary of banking, is moving forward with all speed.

The Littlestown Savings Institution and the Farmers' and Merchants bank, of Dillsburg, are affected under the new plan.

Baltimore Bank Robbed Of $14,100

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—Four middle aged men each carrying a heavy pistol today held up the west Baltimore branch of the Calvert bank and got away with $14,100.

One shot was fired at the ceiling as the men entered the bank.

The bank manager and two clerks were ordered to raise their hands and stand away from the counter while the robbers scooped up all the money they could find into a waste paper basket.

COURT UPSETS EXTRADITION OF LOCAL MAN

Judge McPherson
Overrules Governor
Pinchot's Writ
Today.

JOHN SLAYBAUGH
NOT A FUGITIVE

Judge Donald P. McPherson, in granting John E. Slaybaugh, of Gettysburg, a battlefield guide, his freedom under a writ of habeas corpus in court here this morning, overruled Governor Gifford Pinchot, who signed an extradition order for Slaybaugh's return to Ohio to face an indictment, charging him with failing to support a minor son.

Walter H. Underwood, sheriff of Richland county, of which Mansfield, Ohio, is the county seat, was in court here ready to take Slaybaugh back to Ohio where he was indicted by the April grand jury this year for non-support of his minor son, had Judge McPherson denied the local man his right to a writ of habeas corpus.

Signed In New York

Governor Pinchot signed the executive order for Slaybaugh's extradition from his bed in a New York hospital on Tuesday, about a month after a hearing on Governor White's application for the writ was held before the deputy state attorney general at Harrisburg.

At this morning's hearing on the writ of habeas corpus, asked for by Slaybaugh, the local battlefield guide was represented by J. Donald Swope, Esq. Slaybaugh's former wife, the former Miss Flossie A. Shultz, of Gettysburg, who has since re-married and resides in Painesville, was represented by a Mr. Nichols, of Mansfield.

Mr. Swope called Mrs. Duff (the former Miss Shultz) to the stand to answer a few questions in cross-examination. She testified that Slaybaugh was last in Mansfield in June, 1931, and that she did not lay the information against him, charging non-support, until the spring of this year.

Law Interpretation

She also testified that the action was laid when Slaybaugh failed to make the non-support payments which, she said, stopped in the spring of 1932.

The dispute at today's hearing was the interpretation of section 6 of the state extradition law of 1927, which reads as follows:

"The governor of this state may also surrender on demand of the executive authority of another state any person in this state charged on indictment found in such other state with committing an act in this state intentionally resulting in a crime in such other state and the provisions of this act not otherwise inconsistent shall apply to such cases notwithstanding that the accused was not in that state at the time of the commission of the crime and has not fled therefrom."

Not a Fugitive

Mr. Swope argued that under his interpretation of the section, Slaybaugh was not a fugitive from justice in Ohio and that his failure to make the non-support payments did not constitute a crime.

Mr. Nichols, who admitted that the Pennsylvania state act was the basis of the hearing, argued that Slaybaugh's failure to contribute the payments constituted a crime.

Judge McPherson and the opposing attorneys pointed out that an interpretation of the section has never been given by the superior courts of Pennsylvania.

May File Appeal

As a result Judge McPherson ruled that Slaybaugh had not committed a crime in failing to continue the support payments and was not a fugitive from justice.

Mr. Nichols, who was assisted by District Attorney John P. Butt, took exception to the court's order. He intimated afterwards that the state of Ohio probably would appeal from Judge McPherson's order and throw the action into the Pennsylvania superior court.

IN NEW POSITION

Miss Tillie Abramson, who has been with Kynor, Inc., York, for the past five years in the capacity of saleslady, is now with Charles Bear and company, York, in their sports department. Miss Abramson is well known in Gettysburg.

Miss Maybelle Asper, of the Valley Forge Military academy, and Cadet Robert Evans, of the school, are spending the Christmas holidays at Aspers with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Asper.

Harold Heiges, a student at Gettysburg college, is spending the Christmas holidays in Biglerville with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Dale Heiges.

Miss Anne Miller, of York, is spending the Christmas season at her home in Biglerville.

Miss Lucille Paxton, who is a student at Dickinson college, is spending the Christmas vacation at her home near Goodyear.

Miss Blanche Slaybaugh, head of the English department in the New Cumberland high school, is spending the Christmas vacation in Biglerville with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Slaybaugh.

Mrs. Mary Reed, of Bendersville, has returned from a visit of several weeks in Kane, Illinois.

A union dawn service will be held at Zion Reformed church, Arendtsville, Christmas morning at 6 o'clock. The Girls' Missionary guild of the church is arranging the program.

Professor Charles I. Raffensperger, principal of the Biglerville high school, announced today that the Misses Nancy Dill, Edna Garretson and Isabelle Shank, all seniors, have been elected to membership in the National Honorary Society.

At the same time, he announced that Miss Ruth Steiner and Ray Crum were the winners of a recent W. C. T. U. essay contest, with Kenneth Stallsmith receiving honorable mention.

STOCK REPORT

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Wall street's clouds had a distinctive silver lining today.

Led by the meal group, stocks jumped 1 to 10 points shortly after the opening, apparently on the overnight news that the president had promoted silver to a more solid monetary base.

The so-called silver shares, including U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Howe Sound, Cerra de Pasco and Colorado and Southern, were up around 5 to 10 points at their best, but most of them later reacted from their peaks. At the same time, the tobacco section had its worst break in some months. Liggett and Myers B losing about 6, American Tobacco B, 3, and Reynolds B nearly two.

tucky decreased from 5,000 in 1913 to 103 in 1933.

SILVER DOLLAR COINAGE, 50-50 BASIS, ORDERED

President Roosevelt's Order Ratifies London Silver Agreement.

IS EFFECTIVE FOR FOUR YEARS

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP).—President Roosevelt Thursday night ordered government mints to coin silver on a fifty-fifty basis with producers.

His proclamation, formerly ratifying the London Silver agreement, provided that half of the annual production of 24,000,000 ounces of silver shall be returned in dollars to the producers and the other half kept by the treasury in reserve.

This will give a price, estimated at the White House, of sixty-four and one-half cents an ounce for silver, or half the legal price of $1.29 an ounce, and considerably above the current market price of about forty-three cents.

Mr. Roosevelt stipulated in his proclamation that: "the present ratio in weight and fineness of the silver dollar to the gold dollar shall, for the purposes of this proclamation, be maintained until changed by further order of proclamation."

Pact To Last Four Years

The London silver agreement proposed by Senator Pittman, democrat, Nevada, at the economic conference provided that the silver producing nations would absorb 35,000,000 ounces of silver annually for four years from their mines in return for a promise by the silver using countries of India, China and Spain not to melt up or debase their silver coins.

"This proclamation," said the president in a formal statement, "in accordance with the act of congress, opens our mints to the coinage of standard silver dollars from silver hereafter produced in the United States or its possessions, subject to the depositors of such silver surrendering to the government one-half of it as seigniorage and to cover all usual charges and expenses."

"The dollars coined from half of such newly mined silver will be returned to the depositor. The half surrendered to the government will be retained by the treasury."

Senator Pittman and others from the silver producing areas of the nation have advocated the free coinage of silver.

Silver Dollars May Be Coined

Coinage of the silver is subject to the desire of the producers under the agreement announced. It fully exercised it would mean the coinage of about $13,900,000 of silver dollars.

The presidential proclamation is effective until January 1, 1938, in accordance with the four year provision of the London agreement.

ARREST BANKER AND LAWYER IN MAIL ROBBERY

Chicago, Dec. 22 (AP).—The trail of $250,000 in bonds and money snatched from two Chicago mail carriers a year ago led to the arrest in Texas Thursday of a former bank president and a San Antonio attorney, accused in secret federal indictments of having conspired to dispose of a part of the loot.

The government prisoners were Z. D. Bonner, who was forced to resign as president of the Commercial National bank of San Antonio when indicted by the state of Texas in another case involving stolen bonds, and John H. Cunningham, the bank's attorney, also under indictment in the same state case.

Of the quarter million dollars in securities taken by the mail robbers just across the street from the Chicago post office December 6, 1932, inspectors have recovered $200,000. They announced Thursday that $47,300 of the bonds were found in the Commercial National bank of San Antonio.

Thirty gangsters, politicians, hoodlums, gamblers and bankers have been indicted for conspiracy since the sensational morning hold-up of the registered mail carriers en route to the First National bank, just a block from the postoffice.

TWIN DIES, OTHER ILL AS 100TH BIRTHDAY NEARS

New York, Dec. 22.—Ninety-nine times Mrs. Jeannette Lauchheimer and Mrs. Henrietta Dannenbaum celebrated Christmas together. This year they will not. Mrs. Lauchheimer died Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fannie Hurst. Meanwhile Mrs. Dannenbaum, of Philadelphia, lies seriously ill in Atlantic City.

The twins were born in Bavaria, January 16, 1834. Mrs. Lauchheimer remembered walking through a blizzard in 1876 to hear Richard Wagner conduct the first presentation of his opera "Die Walkure." This was after she and her sister had come to America at the age of 20. Eight grandchildren, five great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren survive Mrs. Lauchheimer.

Young Americans Deny Connection In Spy Ring

Paris, Dec. 22 (AP).—Robert Switz, an American, denied vehemently Thursday night police accusations that he may be connected with an international espionage syndicate which authorities believed would lead directly to "Germany's master organization."

"I am innocent of connection with the spy gang," the 29-year-old native of East Orange, New Jersey, told his attorney, Charles Moyse, when the lawyer visited him in Sainte prison.

Victim Of An Error
Switz protested also against imprisonment of his wife, the former Marjorie Tilley, 22, of New York, who was arrested with her husband and eight others after investigators had spent months in tracing clues officials believe may disclose far-flung ramifications.

Mr. Moyse declined to comment on his interviews with Switz other than to say he was studying the charges.

To Search Hotel Room
Investigating Magistrate Benon was expected to make a thorough search of the couple's room in the presence of the Americans on Saturday and to decide afterward on whether the pair could be held for trial.

[Associated Press Editor's Note: Theodore Marriner, American Charge d'Affaires in Paris, notified the Washington state department that he had investigated the case as completely as possible and that Mr. and Mrs. Switz would be given preliminary hearings in Paris on December 23. He said the examining magistrate had informed him that the French police were convinced of the Switzes' implication in the spy ring.]

MOTHER WINS AND LOSES SON

Chicago Judge's Kindness Offset By Ruling In Another Court.

Chicago, Dec. 22 (AP).—Master Jimmy Coleman, Jr., of South Bend, Indiana, occupied the attention of two Chicago courts Thursday and then went home with his father, notwithstanding the promise of Judge Alfred O. Erickson to the weeping mother that she should have her boy.

Within the space of an hour the municipal and circuit courts had juggled the 6-year-old tot between the divorced parents, and for the second time in a week a habeas corpus writ in a higher court thwarted the sympathy extended a defendant by Judge Erickson in city court. Last week he promised to help a Florida chain-gang fugitive defeat extradition, but changed his mind, and the circuit court took jurisdiction.

Mrs. Ilo Blumenthal, 26, lost custody of Jimmy two years ago when James Coleman, Sr., obtained a divorce in Indiana charging her with adultery. She went after him in South Bend last Friday, brought him here and was charged with child stealing by her former husband, now living with his fourth wife.

Judge Erickson summarily brushed away the objections of the state and dismissed the fugitive warrant against Mrs. Blumenthal Friday.

"Maybe the woman was guilty of indiscretions in the past," he said, "but her former husband is now remarried to his fourth wife, who is an expectant mother. There is evidence that there is no room for little Jimmy in his home. Mrs. Blumenthal has a good home and a good provider. She may keep the boy."

Mother Happy For Moment
Mrs. Blumenthal burst into tears as she explained to the youngster what the judge meant. She was happy, for a moment. Then she was notified of a habeas corpus writ Coleman had obtained from Judge Stanley Klarkowski. The father had not attended the municipal court session.

Injured Worker Saves Passenger Train From Wreck

Oakdale, Tenn., Dec. 22 (AP).—The Florida-bound Ponce de Leon Southern railway passenger train, was saved from a possible wreck Thursday by an injured signal man. W. D. Waters and R. C. Kelly, out before dawn inspecting the electric block system, were thrown from their rail motor car when it crashed into a landslide ten miles north of here.

Waters, although suffering a possible fracture of the skull, stumbled down the track, pulled the block system's wires so that the signal showed red, and began waving a red fuse.

The Ponce de Leon came into view and stopped at the edge of the landslide. Waters and Kelly were taken to a hospital. Kelly suffered a scalp wound and a wrenched back. The dirt and rock were cleared from the tracks in a short time and the train proceeded.

TWO HELD AS TRUCK AND MOONSHINE IS SEIZED

York, Dec. 22 (AP).—A truck containing 138 five-gallon cans of moonshine liquor was seized Thursday by Deputy Sheriff L. J. Carpenter, in Hallam, near here. George P. Tear, driver, and Victor Julio, his companion, both of Washington, are being held at the York police headquarters.

The deputy stopped the truck in Hallam when he noticed that the tail light was not lighted. The truck appeared to be heavily loaded so he ordered Tear to drive to a nearby scales where it was discovered that the vehicle was 2000 pounds overweight. Carpenter asked the nature of the cargo, and was told it was "just freight."

Julio offered Carpenter $200 to "forget" the contents of the truck, the deputy said.

A robber, firing three shots at his intended victim, hit a button of a cash register in Seattle, Wash., and made it ring. He fled.

on his interviews with Switz other than to say he was studying the charges.

Investigating Magistrate Benon was expected to make a thorough search of the couple's room in the presence of the Americans on Saturday and to decide afterward on whether the pair could be held for trial.

[Associated Press Editor's Note: Theodore Marriner, American Charge d'Affaires in Paris, notified the Washington state department that he had investigated the case as completely as possible and that Mr. and Mrs. Switz would be given preliminary hearings in Paris on December 23. He said the examining magistrate had informed him that the French police were convinced of the Switzes' implication in the spy ring.]

Meanwhile a fear that the leaders of the suspected syndicate may have slipped through a widespread net inspired police to fresh activity in an effort to run down forty members of what was described as the French section of an international spy gang.

Acts Clothed In Mystery
Robert D. Murphy, the United States consul, was assigned the task of investigating the detention of the Switzes for the United States government.

Activities of the band were clouded in a haze of mystery, as there remained to be sifted a vast quantity of documents which were seized along with clandestine wireless sets, books, large sums of money, and photographic sets from the ten persons taken into custody.

Police were groping to find a thread that they hoped would lead to the unraveling of a tangle of intrigue.

TWO MARYLAND DOCTORS FREED

Prosecutor Drops Charges After Hearing Testimony Of Witnesses.

Rockville, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—The state Thursday gave up its attempt to convict Dr. Harry R. Street, of Washington, and Dr. Sherwood Ferris, of Chevy Chase, Maryland, of manslaughter as a result of the alleged cancer salve death of Mrs. Cora Britton, of May's Landing, New Jersey.

The two physicians were found not guilty upon direction of the court.

"The testimony of the state has not shown sufficient negligence to substantiate the charge of manslaughter and I do not feel like asking a verdict of guilty," announced State's Attorney Stedman Prescott when court reconvened after lunch Thursday.

After the trial Prescott said he had been impressed by the testimony of over thirty former patients of Dr. Street, who said they had been cured of various sorts of "growths" through his treatment with his cancer salve.

Salve Blamed For Death

The state contended that Mrs. Britton, who went to Doctor Street with a small growth in her right breast, had had her right breast completely burned off by a "powerful corrosive" contained in the salve, and that she died as a result.

Mrs. Britton had been treated by both defendants while she stayed at Dr. Ferris' home in Chevy Chase. After nine weeks there she was removed to a hospital in Baltimore, where she died last May.

Dr. Ferris testified that he gave identical treatment to his sister-in-law. She also died. However, Mrs. Ferris, who from the witness stand told about her sister's case, did not say whether her sister had died from cancer or from the salve and State's Attorney Stedman Prescott did not press the point. Mrs. Ferris' direct testimony concerned the care with which Mrs. Britton had been treated.

Unidentified Man Is Found Murdered

Mullica Hill, N. J., Dec. 22.—Sprawled on the Swedesboro-Franklinville highway about three miles south of here, two truck drivers found the body of an unidentified man, apparently an Italian, early today.

He had been shot four times, twice in the head, once in the chest and hand.

Well dressed, his clothing bore labels of firms in New York, Atlantic City and Philadelphia.

A "numbers" slip in his pocket bearing the initials J. H. and signed "Dusty" caused police to attempt to link the killing with that of Michael Doran, alias Zorwitz, described by investigators as a small time Philadelphia racketeer.

PAYROLL $9,680 TODAY

James R. McConaghie, Adams county civil works' administrator, today announced that a payroll, totalling $9,680.77, was distributed among 979 CWA employees in Gettysburg and Adams county today.

HAAS CAGERS HERE SATURDAY

Former Local College Star Leads Team Against Fleet-Wings.

"Lefty" Haas, former Gettysburg college athlete, will bring his Womlesdorf Collegians here for a game with the Gettysburg Fleet-Wings Saturday night.

The Collegians handed the Wings a 38-37 setback in an extra period game at Womlesdorf recently and come here confident of repeating the triumph.

Boasting a fine array of former college court stars, Womlesdorf is one of the leading contenders the locals must eliminate in the race for the championship of central Pennsylvania. Besides Haas, the Collegians have Anewalt, former Lafayette luminary and Morris, ex-Bucknell star.

The Wings will have their regular lineup including H. Bream, G. Bream, Reilly, Hoke, Lynch, Charnowski, Buohl and Zahn.

Monday afternoon the Fleet-Wings will play a Christmas day benefit for the local poor relief, meeting the Liberty club of York, leaders of the York county league. The game will be played at 3:30 o'clock. There will be no preliminary game.

York Springs and the Sweetland quintets will clash in a county league game Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock. This will be the initial league contest for both teams and a good game is expected.

SHUMAN'S

FORBIDDEN VALLEY

By William Byron Mowery

SYNOPSIS: Curt Tenneyson repulses the friendly advances of Sonya whom he has befriended in the Canadian wilderness, because he knows that the girl is planning to desert his party. To the Igor Karakhan, the millionaire crook whom Curt is tracking down, Curt and his partner Paul know that Sonya is leaving with LeNoir, Karakhan's contact man. LeNoir will send the remorseless Klossobee Indians to destroy them.

Chapter 35 DEPARTURE

Curt stood up and gave Sonya his hand to rise. As his glance met hers he saw tears in her eyes, saw her lips trembling. "All right, Curt," she said quietly, with a humility that amazed him. She glanced down at the ground, started to say something more, checked herself and turned away to her tent.

He thrust the clips into his pocket and walked up to the little stone fort which he and Paul had rolled together. Paul was carefully inspecting it and plugging chinks so that no arrows could sift through. They did not count on having to use the defense; but their situation was delicate. LeNoir was a crafty fellow, and it was wise to guard against the unforeseen.

At the upper tip of the island Ralph was sitting at the water edge occasionally drawing in a fish on the hand-line he was holding. He looked lonely and disconsolate. Curt wondered whether Sonya had really told him the truth about her trip. Ralph was an unselfish soul, but to bring the girl he loved into that country and help her join another man seemed a bit too self-effacing even for him. Probably she had spun him some lie.

As he brought Paul an extra rock he was startled by the low quavering call of an owl six hundred yards out upon the lake. He dropped the rock, stood listening. LeNoir? It couldn't be; the red star was nearly two hours high. But then the call came again, no nearer but louder, and he distinctly caught the falsetto quality of it.

"Halli! It's LeNoir, Paul! He's come early for her!" Paul nodded. "Yes, it's he. Stammering and he must want to get the whole business over with tonight!" They crouched down behind the rocks and waited. Curt's eyes were upon the tent, where Sonya would come out. He had not imagined that her going would be an ordeal. He had even thought he would take a savage pleasure in being free of her for good; but now when she actually was leaving, it seemed impossible to let her go.

When she stepped outside the tent and looked around cautiously to see where Paul and he were, he rose up, overwhelmed by the impulse to go down there and keep her from leaving. Paul checked him, took a part of the burden of decision upon himself.

"Don't, partner! You'd be sorry. Let her leave. She'll be in no danger. Remember, we are following her and can see that she gets safely out."

Sonya hurried on down the island. In the owl dusk her slender form grew fainter and fainter till Curt no longer saw her. A canoe grated on the pea-gravel as she tugged at the craft to get it afloat. A dark blur moved away from shore. Curt covered his face with his hands to shut out the height of it. When he looked up again, the blur was gone.

Paul touched his arm moments afterward.

"We'd better be somewhere else in an hour from now. This island is going to have visitors."

Curt pulled himself together. "Yes, we'd better go," he said jerkily. "We'll take what we need of our outfit and get away to one of these other islands, and then split up."

"Francis and Jocku haven't come back."

Curt turned toward the caribou island, barely visible in the deep dusk. It just then occurred to him that he had not heard the guides shoot. Their silence was strange; they had been gone long enough to make two such trips.

He hurried to the lower end, launched the remaining canoe and darted down lake. A few rods offshore he called in a guarded voice: "Jocku! You and Francis get out of there. Come alive! We haven't any time to waste."

No answer came back. His voice sent the little band of caribou tearing through the swamp birch to the other side of the island, but neither Francis nor Jocku answered.

The explanation dawned on him with a crash. He remembered, too late, that the guides had sat off by themselves all day, talking in low tones; and that Jocku had acted queerly when he came to make his request. Now he saw through the whole ruse. Their trips after a caribou had been a scheme to secure a canoe and get away. Those two had deserted!

He swirled the canoe around and started back to camp, swearing at the evil luck that dogged every step he took. The treachery of those natives was little short of disaster. He had counted heavily on them to take Ralph back south; and now they had sneaked away, the pair of cowards, and Nichols was left on his hands. If he and Paul were encumbered with Ralph on their swift shadowy trip, they would not stand a ghost of a chance.

Before he had gone very far he heard a rifle shot down stream. He stopped short, listened. A mile south, down where the river narrowed to a bottle neck, a flurry of shots sounded. The dull thud of the guns was unmistakable—the heavy bear Winchester of Jocku and Francis. Those two guides were in trouble; they'd run into an ambush!

One of the Winchester suddenly stopped. The other shot four times more. Then, faintly in the taut silence, a long-drawn yell wafted up river, more a scream than any articulate word. Piercing, vibrant with terror, it sent shivers through Curt. It was a man's death cry.

All his anger changed to heartfelt pity. "Poor devils!" he said softly. "They got it. The Klossobee had a party at that narrows, to cut us off if we tried to break away."

He whipped on ashore, goaded by the memory of that cry. Paul had heard it too, and knew what it meant. Working swiftly, they made ready to leave. They left the tents standing, abandoned most of the supplies and all the heavier things; took nothing but guns, blankets and food for a few days.

"Carry this stuff to the canoe," Curt directed. "I'll go get Ralph."

As he hurried up the island, he tried to figure how he might salvage something out of the wreckage of his plans. Perhaps they could take Ralph several miles up some tributary river where the Klossobee were not likely to come, and secrete him in some cave with food and camp necessities. He picked up later when they had finished with Karakhan. It was possible.

"Ralph! Come along with me. We're pitching away from this place on the pump."

Ralph got up quickly. "Why, what's the matter?"

"I'll tell you later. Let's get into the canoe and put distance between us."

"Where's Sonya?" Ralph queried, winding up his fish line.

"Don't ask questions now, man, for Lord's sake! And let that line go. Come on, we're leaving here—"

He bit the sentence off. Out upon the lake to the west a "merganser" called. From north and south came answers. Curt stared in the direction of that first call. For a moment he saw nothing. Then his eyes picked up five blurred mottles, out at the limit of vision. He peered sharply at them. Canoes; five Klossobee canoes!

He spun around with Ralph and ran down toward Paul. If only they could get out upon the lake, they might make a running battle of it and lose themselves in a maze of reedy islets half a mile east.

At the lower tip of the island his partner's gun ripped the night silence with a sharp crack. When he reached Paul, the latter was kneeling down and slipping a fresh magazine into his smoking rifle.

"Look!" Paul grabbed his arm.

"Six of them! Coming in at us!"

Curt looked where he pointed. Three hundred yards offshore half a dozen sinister shadows were looming out of the dusk. Paul's volley had checked their headlong dash, they had scattered to make the target harder; but they were coming straight on, aiming for that lower tip.

"Lord—they've got us!" Curt gasped. Before they could possibly get their canoe launched and out of the shadows, those dancing shadows would be upon them. By a margin of minutes, the precious minutes lost in hunting for Jocku and Francis, they had failed to get away.

A few stray arrows, already swishing into the sand around them, emphasized the point.

"Let's get back to our rocks," he ordered. "Nothing to do now but shoot it out."

They turned and ran for the shelter.

Christina The Xmas Doll

SYNOPSIS: The white woolly dog and Christina are out looking for the one person who can remove the bracelet that made the doll invisible. The Queen of the Fairies leads them to a mole who says he can take the bracelet off.

CHAPTER XI THE HELPFUL MOLE

That mole who lived in a pine tree led the doll, the woolly dog and the Queen of Fairies down such a cute little winding staircase, down and down until they reached quite a large room underground.

There stood a tiny table and a little blacksmith's forge.

"Now just a minute," said Mister Mole. "I recognize that bracelet. It makes you invisible to others. I should never have made it. I was afraid it would cause trouble. Have you come far?"

"All the way from Toyland," said the woolly dog.

"Toyland!" said Mister Mole. "That's where Santa Claus lives. If you are going back I want to send him a gift. I hear he makes all the little children in the world happy on Christmas day."

All the time he talked he was heating a tiny poker. Then he turned to Christina, placed the poker on her little bracelet—very carefully—and in a minute the poker had melted it. He did it so quickly that he didn't even singe Christina's little arm. And there she stood before them just like a flash.

"Woof, woof," barked the dog. He was so happy he jumped all around Christina. The Queen of Fairies smiled and smiled, and the mole rubbed his paws together, as though he were very pleased.

"Now what do you suppose Santa would like?" Mister Mole asked.

"Oh, Santa, never wants anything for himself," said Christina. "But I'm sure he would like a little gold chain to give some little girl this Christmas."

"Fine, fine," said Mister Mole. "I have just the right one." He ran to a little yellow cupboard, opened the doors and took out a tiny wooden box.

"Look," he said. And Christina opened the box to see a chain so fine that it looked like a golden hair.

"On that lovely Santa will be so happy," she said. "And thank you so much for your help. Can we do anything for you?"

"Not a thing. I'm just glad to get that bracelet back. It's really a nice little thing, and I shall re-make it without the magic spell."

"Well, then we must be going," said Christina. "Christmas is almost here and the white woolly dog and I are going to be presents this year."

So they climbed the little winding staircase again. And when they stood outside the pine tree the Queen of Fairies waved her arm and there was a little coach with two tiny white horses to pull it.

So the two toys rode off happily to Toyland.

MAN

So far as I can understand
Man is the only creature planned
To worry and to fret.
All other living things appear
Quite satisfied from year to year
To take what food they get
And crawl or swim or nest in holes
With no concern about their souls.

'Tis only man who seems to dream
And feel the urge to plan and scheme
And strive for wealth and fame.
Of all the creatures he alone
Is moved to make his presence known.

Or value much his name.
He, only, makes his life seem worse
By wanting something in a purse.

'Tis only man who reads and writes.
Builds motor cars, electric lights,
And homes of brick and stone;
Plants gardens, puts up Christmas trees;

Struggles to overcome disease
And makes laws of his own.
All other creatures run life out
Not caring what it's all about.

Now I confess I do not know
Why this condition should be so.
And thought belong to man.
Since he so eager is to rise
I think there must be something wise.

And good behind the plan;
Some reason why we are so swayed,
Or earth a jungle still had stayed.

Fire Breaks Out In Basement Of Executive Office

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—A fire broke out in the waste paper room in the White House executive office Thursday, but was quickly extinguished without any damage. It was in an inside room, without light, in the cellar of the executive offices—which were damaged by flames several years ago at Christmas time.

TRIPLE "X" TYDOL

FORBIDDEN VALLEY

By William Byron Mowery

SYNOPSIS: Curt Tennyson repulses the friendly advances of Sonya, whom he has befriended in the Canadian wilderness, because he knows that the girl is planning to desert his party and to join Igor Karakhan, the millionaire crook whom Curt is tracking down. Curt and his partner Paul know that as soon as Sonya leaves with LeNoir, Karakhan's contact man, LeNoir will send the remorseless Klossobee Indians to destroy them.

Chapter 35 DEPARTURE

Curt stood up and gave Sonya his hand to rise. As his glance met hers he saw tears in her eyes, saw her lips trembling. "All right, Curt," she said quietly, with a humility that shamed him. She glanced down at the ground, started to say something more, checked herself and turned away to her tent.

He thrust the clips into his pocket and walked up to the little stone fort which he and Paul had rolled together. Paul was carefully inspecting it and plugging chinks so that no arrows could sift through. They did not count on having to use the defense; but their situation was delicate, LeNoir was a crafty fellow, and it was wise to guard against the unforeseen.

At the upper tip of the island Ralph was sitting at the water edge occasionally drawing in a fish on the hand-line he was holding. He looked lonely and disconsolate. Curt wondered whether Sonya had really told him the truth about her trip. Ralph was an unselfish soul, but to bring the girl he loved into that country and help her join another man seemed a bit too self-effacing even for him. Probably she had spun him some lie.

As he brought Paul an extra rock he was startled by the low quavering call of an owl six hundred yards out upon the lake. He dropped the rock, stood listening. LeNoir? It couldn't be; the red star was nearly two hours high. But then the call came again, no nearer but louder; and he distinctly caught the falsetto quality of it.

"Hell! It is LeNoir, Paul! He's come early for her."

Paul nodded. "Yes, it's he. Siam-Kiale and he must want to get the whole business over with tonight!"

They crouched down behind the rocks and waited. Curt's eyes were upon the tent, where Sonya would come out. He had not imagined that her going would be an ordeal, he had even thought he would take a savage pleasure in being free of her for good; but now when she actually was leaving, it seemed impossible to let her go.

When she stepped outside the tent and looked around cautiously to see where Paul and he were, he rose up, overwhelmed by the impulse to go down there and keep her from leaving. Paul checked him, took a part of the burden of decision upon himself.

"Don't, partner! You'd be sorry. Let her leave. She'll be in no danger. Remember, we are following her and can see that she gets safely out."

Sonya hurried on down the island. In the owl dusk her slender form grew fainter and fainter till Curt no longer saw her. A canoe grated on the pea-gravel as she tugged at the craft to get it afloat. A dark blur moved away from shore. Curt covered his face with his hands to shut out the height of it. When he looked up again, the blur was gone.

Paul touched his arm moments afterward.

"We'd better be somewhere else in an hour from now. This island is going to have visitors."

Curt pulled himself together. "Yes, we'd better go," he said jerkily. "We'll take what we need of our outfit and get away to one of these other islands, and then split up."

"Francis and Jocku haven't come back."

Curt turned toward the caribou island, barely visible in the deep dusk. It just then occurred to him that he had not heard the guides shoot. Their silence was strange; they had been gone long enough to make two such trips.

He hurried to the lower end, launched the remaining canoe and darted down lake. A few rods offshore he called in a guarded voice:

"Jocku! You and Francis get out of there. Come alive! We haven't any time to waste."

No answer came back. His voice sent the little band of caribou tearing through the swamp birch to the other side of the island, but neither Francis nor Jocku answered.

The explanation dawned on him with a crash. He remembered, too late, that the guides had sat off by themselves all day, talking in low tones; and that Jocku had acted queerly when he came to make his request. Now he saw through the whole ruse. Their trips after a caribou had been a scheme to secure a canoe and get away. Those two had deserted!

He swirled the canoe around and started back to camp, swearing at the evil luck that dogged every step he took. The treachery of those natives was little short of disaster. He had counted heavily on them to take Ralph back south; and now they had sneaked away, the pair of cowards, and Nichols was left on his hands. If he and Paul were encumbered with Ralph on their swift shadowy trip, they would not stand a ghost of a chance.

Before he had gone very far he heard a rifle shot down stream. He stopped short, listened. A mile south, down where the river narrowed to a bottle neck, a flurry of shots sounded. The dull thud of the guns was unmistakable—the heavy bear Winchester of Jocku and Francois. Those two guides were in trouble; they'd run into an ambush!

One of the Winchesters suddenly stopped. The other shot four times more. Then, faintly in the taut silence, a long-drawn yell wafted up river, more a scream than any articulate word. Piercing, vibrant with terror, it sent shivers through Curt. It was a man's death cry.

All his anger changed to heartfelt pity. "Poor devils!" he said softly. "They got it. The Klossobees had a party at that narrows, to cut us off if we tried to break away."

He whipped on ashore, goaded by the memory of that cry. Paul had heard it too, and knew what it meant. Working swiftly, they made ready to leave. They left the tents standing, abandoned most of the supplies and all the heavier things; took nothing but guns, blankets and food for a few days.

As he hurried up the island, he tried to figure how he might salvage something out of the wreckage of his plans. Perhaps they could take Ralph several miles up some tributary river where the Klossobees were not likely to come, and secrete him in some cave with food and camp necessities. He picked up later when they had finished with Karakhan. It was possible.

"Ralph! Come along with me. We're pitching away from this place on the pump."

Ralph got up quickly. "Why, what's the matter?"

"I'll tell you later. Let's get into the canoe and put distance between us."

"Where's Sonya?" Ralph queried, winding up his fish line.

"Don't ask questions now, man, for Lord's sake! And let that line go. Come on, we're leaving here—"

He bit the sentence off. Out upon the lake to the west a "merganser" called. From north and south came answers. Curt stared in the direction of that first call. For a moment he saw nothing. Then his eyes picked up five blurred mottles, out at the limit of vision. He peered sharply at them. Canoes; five Klossobee canoes!

He spun around with Ralph and ran down toward Paul. If only they could get out upon the lake, they might make a running battle of it and lose themselves in a maze of reedy islets half a mile east. At the lower tip of the island his partner's gun ripped the night silence with a sharp cr-aa-ck. When he reached Paul, the latter was kneeling down and dipping a fresh magazine into his smoking rifle.

"Look!" Paul grabbed his arm. "Six of them! Coming in at us!"

Curt looked where he pointed. Three hundred yards offshore half a dozen sinister shadows were looming out of the dusk. Paul's volley had checked their headlong dash, they had scattered to make the target harder; but they were coming straight on, aiming for that lower tip.

"Lord—they've got us!" Curt gasped. Before they could possibly get their canoe launched and out of the shadows, those dancing shadows would be upon them. By a margin of minutes, the precious minutes lost in hunting for Jocku and Francois, they had failed to get away.

A few stray arrows, already swishing into the sand around them, emphasized the point.

"Let's get back to our rocks," he ordered. "Nothing to do now but shoot it out."

They turned and ran for the shelter.

Christina The Xmas Doll

SYNOPSIS: The white woolly dog and Christina are out looking for the one person who can remove the bracelet that made the doll invisible. The Queen of the Fairies leads them to a mole who says he can take the bracelet off.

CHAPTER XI THE HELPFUL MOLE

That mole who lived in a pine tree led the doll, the woolly dog and the Queen of Fairies down such a cute little winding staircase, down and down until they reached quite a large room underground.

There stood a tiny table and a little blacksmith's forge.

"Now just a minute," said Mister Mole. "I recognize that bracelet. It makes you invisible to others. I should never have made it. I was afraid it would cause trouble. Have you come far?"

"All the way from Toyland," said the woolly dog.

"Toyland!" said Mister Mole. "That's where Santa Claus lives. If you are going back I want to send him a gift. I hear he makes all the little children in the world happy on Christmas day."

All the time he talked he was

heating a tiny poker. Then he turned to Christina, placed the poker on her little bracelet—very carefully—and in a minute the poker had melted it. He did it so quickly that he didn't even singe Christina's little arm. And there she stood before them just like a flash.

"Woof, woof," barked the dog. He was so happy he jumped all around Christina. The Queen of Fairies smiled and smiled, and the mole rubbed his paws together, as though he were very pleased.

"Now what do you suppose Santa would like?" Mister Mole asked. "Oh, Santa, never wants anything for himself," said Christina. "But I'm sure he would like a little gold chain to give some little girl this Christmas."

"Fine, fine," said Mister Mole. "I have just the right one." He ran to a little yellow cupboard, opened the doors and took out a tiny wooden box.

"Look," he said. And Christina opened the box to see a chain so fine that it looked like a golden hair.

"Oh, that's lovely. Santa will be so happy," she said. "And thank you so much for your help. Can we do anything for you?"

"Not a thing I'm just glad to get that bracelet back. It's really a nice little thing, and I shall re-make it without the magic spell."

"Well, then we must be going," said Christina. "Christmas is almost here and the white woolly dog and I are going to be presents this year."

So they climbed the little winding staircase again. And when they stood outside the pine tree the Queen of Fairies waved her arm and there was a little coach with two tiny white horses to pull it.

So the two toys rode off happily to Toyland.

MAN

So far as I can understand
Man is the only creature planned
To worry and to fret.
All other living things appear
Quite satisfied from year to year
To take what food they get
And crawl or swim or nest in holes
With no concern about their souls.

'Tis only man who seems to dream
And feel the urge to plan and scheme
And strive for wealth and fame.
Of all the creatures he alone
Is moved to make his presence known
Or value much his name.

He, only, makes his life seem worse
By wanting something in a purse.

'Tis only man who reads and writes.
Builds motor cars, electric lights,
And homes of brick and stone;
Plants gardens, puts up Christmas trees;
Struggles to overcome disease
And makes laws of his own.

All other creatures run life out
Not caring what it's all about.

Now I confess I do not know
Why this condition should be so,
And though I belong to man,
Since he so eager is to rise
I think there must be something Wise

And good behind the plan;
Some reason why we are so swayed,
Or earth a jungle still had stayed.

STOCK REPORT

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Wall street's clouds had a distinctive silver lining today.

Led by the meal group, stocks jumped 1 to 10 points shortly after the opening, apparently on the overnight news that the president had promoted silver to a more solid monetary base.

The so-called silver shares, including U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Howe Sound, Cerra de Pasco and Colorado and Southern, were up around 5 to 10 points at their best, but most of them later reacted from their peaks. At the same time, the tobacco section had its worst break in some months. Liggett and Myers B losing about 6, American Tobacco B, 3, and Reynolds B nearly two.

tucky decreased from 5,000 in 1913 to 103 in 1933.

SILVER DOLLAR COINAGE, 50-50 BASIS, ORDERED

President Roosevelt's Order Ratifies London Silver Agreement.

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP).—President Roosevelt Thursday night ordered government mints to coin silver on a fifty-fifty basis with producers.

His proclamation, formerly ratifying the London Silver agreement, provided that half of the annual production of 24,000,000 ounces of silver shall be returned in dollars to the producers and the other half kept by the treasury in reserve.

This will give a price, estimated at the White House, of sixty-four and one-half cents an ounce for silver, or half the legal price of $1.29 an ounce, and considerably above the current market price of about forty-three cents.

Mr. Roosevelt stipulated in his proclamation that: "The present ratio in weight and fineness of the silver dollar to the gold dollar shall, for the purposes of this proclamation, be maintained until changed by further order of proclamation."

The London silver agreement proposed by Senator Pittman, democrat, Nevada, at the economic conference provided that the silver producing nations would annually 35,000,000 ounces of silver annually for four years from their mines in return for a promise by the silver using countries of India, China and Spain not to melt up or debase their silver coins.

"This proclamation," said the president in a formal statement, "in accordance with the act of congress, opens our mints to the coinage of standard silver dollars from silver hereafter produced in the United States or its possessions, subject to the depositors of such silver surrendering to the government one-half of it as seigniorage and to cover all usual charges and expenses."

"The dollars coined from half of such newly mined silver will be returned to the depositor. The half surrendered to the government will be retained by the treasury."

Senator Pittman and others from the silver producing areas of the nation have advocated the free coinage of silver.

Silver Dollars May Be Coined. Coinage of the silver is subject to the desire of the producers under the agreement announced. It fully exercised it would mean the coinage of about $13,900,000 of silver dollars.

The presidential proclamation is effective until January 1, 1938, in accordance with the four year provision of the London agreement.

ARREST BANKER AND LAWYER IN MAIL ROBBERY

Chicago, Dec. 22 (AP).—The trail of $250,000 in bonds and money snatched from two Chicago mail carriers a year ago led to the arrest in Texas Thursday of a former bank president and a San Antonio attorney, accused in secret federal indictments of having conspired to dispose of a part of the loot.

The government prisoners were Z. D. Bonner, who was forced to resign as president of the Commercial National bank of San Antonio when indicted by the state of Texas in another case involving stolen bonds, and John H. Cunningham, the bank's attorney, also under indictment in the same state case.

Of the quarter million dollars in securities taken by the mail robbers just across the street from the Chicago post office December 6, 1932, inspectors have recovered $200,000. They announced Thursday that $47,300 of the bonds were found in the Commercial National bank of San Antonio.

Thirty gangsters, politicians, hoodlums, gamblers and bankers have been indicted for conspiracy since the sensational morning hold-up of the registered mail carriers en route to the First National bank, just a block from the postoffice.

TWIN DIES, OTHER ILL AS 100TH BIRTHDAY NEARS

New York, Dec. 22.—Ninety-nine times Mrs. Jeanette Lauchheimer and Mrs. Henrietta Dannenbaum, celebrated Christmas together. This year they will not. Mrs. Lauchheimer died Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fannie Hurst. Meanwhile Mrs. Dannenbaum, of Philadelphia, lies seriously ill in Atlantic City.

The twins were born in Bavaria, January 16, 1834. Mrs. Lauchheimer remembered walking through a blizzard in 1876 to hear Richard Wagner conduct the first presentation of his opera "Die Walkure." This was after she and her sister had come to America at the age of 20. Eight grandchildren, five great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren survive Mrs. Lauchheimer.

Young Americans Deny Connection In Spy Ring

Paris, Dec. 22 (AP).—Robert Switz, an American, denied vehemently Thursday night police accusations that he may be connected with an international espionage syndicate which authorities believed would lead directly to "Germany's master organization."

"I am innocent of connection with the spy gang," the 29-year-old native of East Orange, New Jersey, told his attorney, Charles Moyse, when the lawyer visited him in Sainte prison.

Victim Of An Error

"I was the victim of an error," Switz protested also against imprisonment of his wife, the former Marjorie Tilley, 22, of New York, who was arrested with her husband and eight others after investigators had spent months in tracing clues officials believe may disclose far-flung ramifications.

Mr. Moyse declined to comment on his interviews with Switz other than to say he was studying the charges.

To Search Hotel Room

Investigating Magistrate Benon was expected to make a thorough search of the couple's room in the presence of the Americans on Saturday and to decide afterward on whether the pair could be held for trial.

[Associated Press Editor's Note: Theodore Marriner, American Charge d'Affaires in Paris, notified the Washington state department that he had investigated the case as completely as possible and that Mr. and Mrs. Switz would be given preliminary hearings in Paris on December 23. He said the examining magistrate had informed him that the French police were convinced of the Switzes' implication in the spy ring.]

Meanwhile a fear that the leaders of the suspected syndicate may have slipped through a widespread net inspired police to fresh activity in an effort to run down forty members of what was described as the French section of an international spy gang.

Acts Clothed In Mystery

Robert D. Murphy, the United States consul, was assigned the task of investigating the detention of the Switzes for the United States government.

Activities of the band were clouded in a haze of mystery, as there remained to be sifted a vast quantity of documents which were seized along with clandestine wireless sets, books, large sums of money, and photographic sets from the ten persons taken into custody.

Police were groping to find a thread that they hoped would lead to the unraveling of a tangle of intrigue.

MOTHER WINS AND LOSES SON

Chicago Judge's Kindness Offset By Ruling In Another Court.

Chicago, Dec. 22 (AP).—Master Jimmy Coleman, Jr., of South Bend, Indiana, occupied the attention of two Chicago courts Thursday and then went home with his father, notwithstanding the promise of Judge Alfred O. Erickson to the weeping mother that she should have her boy.

Within the space of an hour the municipal and circuit courts had juggled the 6-year-old tot between the divorced parents, and for the second time in a week a habeas corpus writ in a higher court thwarted the sympathy extended a defendant by Judge Erickson in city court.

Last week he promised to help a Florida chain-gang fugitive defeat extradition, but changed his mind, and the circuit court took jurisdiction.

Mrs. Ho Blumenthal, 28, lost custody of Jimmy two years ago when James Coleman, Sr., obtained a divorce in Indiana charging her with adultery. She went after him in South Bend last Friday, brought him here and was charged with child stealing by her former husband, now living with his fourth wife.

Judge Erickson summarily brushed away the objections of the state and dismissed the fugitive warrant against Mrs. Blumenthal Friday.

"Maybe the woman was guilty of indiscretions in the past," he said, "but her former husband is now remarried to his fourth wife, who is an expectant mother. There is evidence that there is no room for little Jimmy in his home. Mrs. Blumenthal has a good home and a good provider. She may keep the boy."

Mother Happy For Moment. Mrs. Blumenthal burst into tears as she explained to the youngster what the judge meant. She was happy, for a moment. Then she was notified of a habeas corpus writ Coleman had obtained from Judge Stanley Klarkowski. The father had not attended the municipal court session.

Injured Worker Saves Passenger Train From Wreck

Oakdale, Tenn., Dec. 22 (AP).—The Florida-bound Ponce de Leon, Southern railway passenger train, was saved from a possible wreck Thursday by an injured signal man.

W. D. Waters and R. C. Kelly, out before dawn inspecting the electric block system, were thrown from their rail motor car when it crashed into a landslide ten miles north of here.

Waters, although suffering a possible fracture of the skull, stumbled down the track, pulled the block system's wires so that the signal showed red, and began waving a red fuse.

The Ponce de Leon came into view and stopped at the edge of the landslide. Waters and Kelly were taken to a hospital. Kelly suffered a scalp wound and a wrenched back. The dirt and rock were cleared from the tracks in a short time and the train proceeded.

TWO HELD AS TRUCK AND MOONSHINE IS SEIZED

York, Dec. 22 (AP).—A truck containing 138 five-gallon cans of moonshine liquor was seized Thursday by Deputy Sheriff L. J. Carpenter, in Hallam, near here. George F. Tear, driver, and Victor Julio, his companion, both of Washington, are being held at the York police headquarters.

The deputy stopped the truck in Hallam when he noticed that the tail light was not lighted. The truck appeared to be heavily loaded so he ordered Tear to drive to a nearby scales where it was discovered that the vehicle was 2000 pounds overweight. Carpenter asked the nature of the cargo, and was told it was "just freight."

HAAS CAGERS HERE SATURDAY

Former Local College Star Leads Team Against Fleet-Wings.

"Lefty" Haas, former Gettysburg college athlete, will bring his Womiesdorf Collegians here for a game with the Gettysburg Fleet-Wings Saturday night.

The Collegians handed the Wings a 38-37 setback in an extra period game at Womiesdorf recently and come here confident of repeating the triumph.

Boasting a fine array of former college court stars, Womiesdorf is one of the leading contenders the locals must eliminate in the race for the championship of central Pennsylvania. Besides Haas, the Collegians have Annewalt, former Lafayette luminary and Morris, ex-Bucknell star.

The Wings will have their regular lineup including H. Bream, G. Bream, Reilly, Hoke, Lynch, Chawinski, Buohl and Zahn.

Monday afternoon the Fleet-Wings will play a Christmas day benefit for the local poor relief, meeting the Liberty club of York, leaders of the York county league. The game will be played at 3:30 o'clock. There will be no preliminary game.

York Springs and the Sweetland quintets will clash in a county league game Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock. This will be the initial league contest for both teams and a good game is expected.

TRAIN DERAILLED

Chambersburg—A defective wheel of a box car on a Hagerstown-bound Western Maryland Railway company freight train was said to have caused the derailment of four cars and considerable damage Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock on the tracks paralleling Hood street at the H. R. Forbes granite works.

LADIES MAKE LARGE QUILT

Waynesboro—Inspired by the history of a quilt made in 1895, ladies of the Blue Rock Methodist Episcopal church are now working on a new quilt with patches enough to write on five hundred names. They expect to receive at least a dime for each name, the proceeds to be used for the purchase of a new carpet in the church. So far they have two hundred names.

When you buy a GIFT WATCH

ask this question...

YOU naturally do not want to give a watch whose case will soon wear off and begin to change color. So when you make your selection, be sure to ask if the case is of genuine precious metal!

In our store you will find watches whose names are a guarantee of known value. Many of them are in cases of precious metal by Wadsworth—case maker for the world's largest watch manufacturers. And you will find that it costs no more to give one of these finer watches.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Faber-Lohr: Miss Minnie Lohr
and Dr. Edgar M. Faber were married on Monday at the home of the bride in Salisbury, North Carolina.
They are spending their honeymoon
at Grove Park Inn, Asheville and will later come to Gettysburg for the Christmas holidays.

The bride is a daughter of Rev.
Luther L. Lohr, of Salisbury. She
spent six years in Gettysburg, during which time she resided with
Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Bender and
Mrs. M. E. Zinn. She is a graduate in music, Lenoir college and taught a large number of pupils during her stay here.

Dr. Faber is the oldest son of
Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Faber, of Chambersburg street. He was graduated from Gettysburg college in the class of 1914 and from here went to Johns Hopkins, where he pursued
post graduate work in chemistry
and earned his degree of doctor of philosophy. Dr. Faber is now identified with the Du Pont Powder
company.

They will reside in Wilmington, where Dr. Faber has erected a new residence.

Gettysburg Man Killed in Action:
Gettysburg's second son to be killed
in action was reported Tuesday afternoon, when Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mickley, of 406 South Washington
street, received this telegram:

"Deeply regret to inform you that Corporal Andrew E. Mickley, infantry, previously reported
missing in action since September thirtieth, is now reported killed in action same date.

Another Name on Honor Roll:

"Deeply regret to inform you that Charles C. Bucher, previously reported missing in action September 30th, is now reported killed in action September 30th.—Harris, Adjutant General."

This telegram was received Monday by Charles Bucher, of Bon-

Read The Bible With Us Daily

And his father Zacharias was filled with the Holy Ghost, and prophesized, saying,

Blessed be the Lord God of Israel; for he hath visited and redeemed his people,

And hath raised up a horn of salvation for us in the house of
his servant David;

As he spake by the mouth of his holy prophets, which have been
since the world began:

That we should be saved from
our enemies, and from the hand
of all that hate us;

To perform the mercy promised
to our fathers, and to remember
his holy covenant;

The oath which he swore to our
father Abraham,

That he would grant unto us,
that we, being delivered out of the hand of our enemies, might serve
him without fear,

In holiness and righteousness before him, all the days of our life.

And thou, child, shalt be called the prophet of the Highest: for thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to prepare his way;

To give knowledge of salvation
unto his people by the remission
of their sins,

Through the tender mercy of our God; whereby the daypring from on high hath visited us.

To give light to them that sit
in darkness and in the shadow
of death, to guide our feet into
the way of peace.

And the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, and was in the deserts till the day of his shew-ing unto Israel.

Luke 1:67-83.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE SANTA CLAUS OF BROADWAY

PUT George M. Cohan anywhere on the face of this earth—and there he would be beloved. Decade after decade he has been entertaining people who have visited Broadway in New York city—and yet, in a way, he is an asset to a dozen or more countries—for he has sent people to their homes in all directions—sane, happier, and with a better viewpoint upon life.

I heard Cohan over the radio the other evening—and he is the same eternal embodiment of youth, dash and glorious spirit. A fellow feels like taking every bill "on high" after listening to Cohan in one of his songs.
They call him "the song and dance man"—but he is far more than this—a whole organization of pep, ginger and royal cheer.

It is said that Cohan is one of the most generous of men and that he has helped hundreds in every conceivable manner. He has given encouragement to countless numbers upon the stage—and off the stage as well. He has made big money. He has lost big money. He has suffered reverses and gone through many a difficult trial—but the same George Cohan survives!

Here is a man with white hair now—and a heart as white—a man
with such spirit of gold that he would be a rich asset to humanity did he not possess a cent in money.

I would call George M. Cohan the Santa Claus of Broadway because he loves his kind and is forever—bringing something to someone. I do not know George M. Cohan in person and have never met him. I have only heard him upon the stage and seen him in pictures, but he is an inspiration to me as he is to countless thousands scattered everywhere.

The amazing thing is that George M. Cohan never grows old! In years, yes—but not in thought or spirit. He is welcomed and beloved everywhere and he has entertained with clean hands and with songs that would put doctors' pills to shame!

George M. Cohan is a credit to the stage, a rollicking boy, loaned by Zeus to a sick world. All glory and honor to him—may he never die!

WAL, WE WOULDN'T BE APT TO BLOW UP OUR OWN DIGGINS. AN' ANOTHER THING, KENNY, WE DON'T WANT NO UNNECESSARY TROUBLE AROUND HERE SO WE COME DOWN TO TELL YOU AGIN' THAT YOU'RE TRESPASSIN'!

I FIGGERED OUT THIS MORNIN' THAT YOU REALLY MUST HAVE RIGHTS HERE, SO I BEEN TAKIN' DOWN THESE WARNIN' SIGNS OF MINE. BUT I BEEN WONDERIN' IF I CAN'T DO SOME MINN' HERE WITHOUT GITTIN' IN A JAM WITH CIRCLE BAR.

I RECKON MR BROWN WON'T BE DEAF TO NO FAIR PROPOSITION

WELL, YOU SHALL PAY DEARLY FOR THIS INSULT-MARK MY WORD!

IT WAS AN OVER-SIGHT FOR WHICH I DO HUMBL'Y CRAVE PARDON. PRAY THESE COME WITH US AND BE SEATED!

I'LL HIDE BEHIND THE CHILDS CRADLE AND BE READY TO PROTECT HER FROM THAT CROSS FAIRY'S EVIL SPELL!

JUST BEFORE THE TIME FOR THEM TO BESTOW THEIR GIFTS ON THE BABY PRINCESS, THE GOOD FAIRY HASTILY LEFT THE TABLE.

AT ANY MOMENT NOW THEY WILL COME AND OFFER THEIR GIFTS TO THE BABY PRINCESS.

JUST THEN THE OTHER FAIRIES, INCLUDING THE BAD-TEMPERED ONE, ENTERED THE ROOM FOLLOWED BY THE KING AND THE QUEEN

I HOPE THAT THEY DO NOT NOTICE MY ABSENCE AT ONCE!

FOR I MUST REMAIN CONCEALED HERE SO THAT I MAY SPEAK LAST AND PROTECT THE CHILD AGAINST THE SPELL OF THAT WICKED ONE!!

AND NOW, LITTLE PRINCESS, HERE IS MY GIFT!!

BUT AT THAT MOMENT, THINKING THAT ALL THE GOOD FAIRIES HAD SPOKEN, THE IL-TEMPERED ONE APPROACHED THE CRADLE

AND I GIVE THEE BEAUTY! AND I GRACE! AND I WIT! AND I VIRTUE!

AND I A LOVELY VOICE! AND I A SMILE TO WIN ALL HEARTS!

AH, MY QUEEN FORTUNE—INDEED, IS OUR CHILD TO BE ENDOWED WITH SUCH BLESSINGS!

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO
Faber-Lohr: Miss Minnie Lohr
and Dr. Edgar M. Faber were married on Monday at the home of the bride in Salisbury, North Carolina.
They are spending their honeymoon
at Grove Park Inn, Asheville and will later come to Gettysburg for the Christmas holidays.
The bride is a daughter of Rev.
Luther L. Lohr of Salisbury. She
spent six years in Gettysburg, during which time she resided with
Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Bender and
Mrs. M. E. Zinn. She is a graduate in music, Lehigh college and taught
a large number of pupils during her
stay here.
Dr. Faber is the oldest son of
Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Faber, of Chambersburg street. He was graduated from Gettysburg college in the class
of 1914 and from here went to Johns Hopkins, where he pursued
post graduate work in chemistry
and earned his degree of doctor of philosophy. Dr. Faber is now identified with the Du Pont Powder
company.
They will reside in Wilmington,
where Dr. Faber has erected a new residence.

Gettysburg Man Killed in Action:
Gettysburg's second son to be killed in action was reported Tuesday afternoon, when Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mickley, of 406 South Washington
street, received this telegram:
"Deeply regret to inform you that Corporal Andrew E. Mickley, infantry, previously reported
missing in action since September thirtieth, is now reported killed in action same date."

Another Name on Honor Roll:
"Deeply regret to inform you
that Charles C. Bucher, previously reported missing in action September 30th, is now reported killed in action September 30th.—Harris, Adjutant General."

This telegram was received Monday by Charles Bucher, of Bon-neauville, father of the young soldier.

Read The Bible
With Us Daily

And his father Zacharias was filled with the Holy Ghost, and prophesied, saying,
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel; for he hath visited and redeemed his people.
And hath raised up a horn of
salvation for us in the house of
his servant David;
As he spake by the mouth of his
holy prophets, which have been
since the world began:
That we should be saved from
our enemies, and from the hand
of all that hate us:
To perform the mercy promised
to our fathers, and to remember
his holy covenant:
The oath which he swore to our
father Abraham,
That he would grant unto us,
that we, being delivered out of the hand of our enemies, might serve
him without fear.
In holiness and righteousness
before him, all the days of our life.
And thou, child, shalt be called
the prophet of the Highest: for thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to prepare his ways.
To give knowledge of salvation
unto his people by the remission
of their sins.
Through the tender mercy of our God; whereby the day-spring from on high hath visited us:
To give light to them that sit
in darkness and in the shadow
of death, to guide our feet into
the way of peace.
And the child grew, and waxed
strong in spirit, and was in the deserts till the day of his showing unto Israel.

Luke 1:67-82.

sold his farm near Bonneauville, to his tenant, Dennis Little, for $3500.
The farm was improved with dwelling house, barn, outbuildings, &c.

Red Cross Gets the High School:
The Gettysburg High School is more than 100 per cent for the Red Cross. Not only has every one of the 204 pupils joined, but they have secured for their honor roll 36 associate members—children under 15 years of age. Some of these are mere infants, the youngest member was only three days old when it was placed on the roll.

Real Appreciation: Without suggestion from an outside source, the students at Gettysburg College voluntarily raised $204 which they presented to Mrs. Miller, trained nurse at the college infirmary, as a Christmas gift.
The fund was in appreciation of Mrs. Miller's untiring efforts for the boys during the influenza visitation which existed with varying intensity from the opening of the school year to its close.

Elect Officers: An exceptionally good meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association was held in the High School building on Friday evening as the first one of the present school year. An interesting program was rendered.
Officers were elected as follows:
president, Mrs. H. T. Weaver; vice presidents, Mrs. Albert Rogers, Miss Heien Cope and Mrs. S. N. Hagen; recording secretary, Miss Grace
Sachs; financial secretary, Mrs. C.
B. Dougherty; treasurer, Wilson A.
Bream.

The following committees were appointed: visiting, Mrs. H. Milton Roth, Mrs. Edward Weaver and Mrs. Irvin L. Taylor, program, William Gilbert, Mrs. T. J. Winebrenner and Miss Elizabeth Rummel.
The Home and School banner was won by the Freshman Class of the High School, being the first time the High School has had it for several years.

Another Home: Roy Plank has returned to his home on North Stratton street after serving in the United States Army. He spent the past year with the troops in England and only recently arrived in New York. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Plank.

Personal: Dr. Harvey Stoner has returned to Baltimore after a visit of several days at his home on Baltimore street.
Lt. Donald Coover has returned from Camp Greenleaf, Georgia, to his home on Seminary Ridge, having been discharged from the service.

William McGugan has returned from Camp Lee to spend some time at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David McGugan.
Mrs. Harry Hantz, of Harrisburg, is spending the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Samuel Trummer, on East Middle street.

Miss Helen Musselman has returned from Cape May Court House,
New Jersey, to spend the holidays
at her home on Baltimore street.
Sergeant Frank Motika, of Camp
Dick, N. J., is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Speese, Hanover street.

Carroll R. McDonnell, of West Middle street, has gone to Harrisburg and Ellwood City to spend the holidays.
Clarence E. Bumbaugh, U. S. N., is a visitor at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mattie Bumbaugh, on East Middle street.

Miss Edith Hollinger is visiting friends in Washington.
Mrs. Erle Diehl and daughter, Elizabeth have returned from Pottsville to spend the Christmas holidays with friends and relatives here.
Dr. Philip M. Pike, of Lincoln avenue, has gone to Millinburg for a visit of several weeks.

Mrs. George S. Weikert and children, of York street, are spending the winter with relatives in Cleveland, Ohio.
Sergeant and Mrs. Jesse Hallock announce the birth of a daughter Sunday. Mrs. Hallock was formerly Miss Cora Hess, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hess, of Steinwehr avenue.

Dr. S. N. Hagen, of Stevens street, left on Wednesday afternoon for Minnesota, where he will spend the Christmas holidays with his father.
Mrs. Emma Stahle, of Carlisle street, is spending the winter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Stahle in Greenwood, Miss.
Dr. and Mrs. G. D. Stahle, of Carlisle street, have gone to Easton to spend the holidays.

Leutenant and Mrs. Robert E.
Lee have returned to Gettysburg after spending several weeks in Wrightstown, New Jersey.

Liner Abandoned; Passengers Landed
SUNDAY, Dec. 22 (AP)—The crack
Canadian national liner Prince George was abandoned by her crew after a month's Thursday on Vancouver Island in far northern British Columbia waters after its twelve passengers had reached shore safely.
The vessel was running on about 100 miles from the coast, and was about 100 miles from the nearest land when it was abandoned. The passengers were all women and children, and were landed safely by a small boat. The vessel was found to be in a bad state of repair, and was unable to continue its voyage. The passengers were all well, and were landed safely
by a small boat. The vessel was found to be in a bad state of repair, and was unable to continue its voyage.

TODAY'S TALK
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
THE SANTA CLAUS OF BROADWAY

PUT George M. Cohan anywhere on the face of this earth—and there he would be beloved. Decade after decade he has been entertaining people who have visited Broadway in New York city—and yet, in a way,
he is an asset to a dozen or more countries—for he has sent people to their homes in all directions—samer, happier, and with a better viewpoint upon life.
I heard Cohan over the radio the other evening—and he is the same eternal embodiment of youth, dash and glorious spirit. A fellow feels like taking every hill "on high" after listening to Cohan in one of his songs.
They call him "the song and dance man"—but he is far more than this—a whole organization of pep, ginger and royal cheer.
It is said that Cohan is one of the most generous of men and that he has helped hundreds in every conceivable manner. He has given encouragement to countless numbers upon the stage—and off the stage as well. He has made big money. He has lost big money. He has suffered reverses and gone through many a difficult trial—but the same George Cohan survives!
Here is a man with white hair now—and a heart as white—a man
with such spirit of gold that he would be a rich asset to humanity did he not possess a cent in money.
I would call George M. Cohan the Santa Claus of Broadway because he loves his kind and is forever—bringing something to someone. I do not know George M. Cohan in person and have never met him. I have only heard him upon the stage and seen him in pictures, but he is an inspiration to me as he is to countless thousands scattered everywhere.
The amazing thing is that George M. Cohan never grows old! In years, yes—but not in thought or spirit. He is welcomed and beloved everywhere and he has entertained with clean hands and with songs that would put doctors' pills to shame!
George M. Cohan is a credit to the stage, a rollicking boy, loaned by Zeus to a sick world. All glory and honor to him—may he never die!

A Gift He Will Appreciate

You can take STETSON STYLE for granted
WHEN you see the STETSON label in a hat, you need never ask, "Is this hat in fashion?"
For ever since John B. Stetson, way back in 1865, showed that America could produce quality hats, well-dressed men have taken STETSON style for granted.
A STETSON is not merely in style—
it IS style! And it's the greatest hat value in the world, as well!

SAMUEL INSULL, JR., POSTS $18,000 BAIL

Crown Point, Ind., Dec. 22 (AP).—Samuel Insull, Jr., posted $18,000 bond Thursday in criminal court on an indictment charging him and six others with conspiracy and embezzlement and larceny from the Northern Indiana Public Service company.

Details of the indictment were revealed for the first time Thursday.

They charge embezzlement of $2,533,375 in the form of a note by Midland Utilities company and held by Northern Indiana.

The seven officers and directors of the corporation, some of them since retired from its affairs, also are charged with conspiracy to embezzle $217,000 of the $2,533,375 total. The smaller amount allegedly was turned over to Midland Utilities.

CHRISTMAS DINNER

Cranberry cocktail is especially appropriate to serve with the holiday feast as it has the Christmas color as well as being a typically holiday food. The cocktail can be served in small glass cups and used at the first course for the dinner. Small salted wafers or celery sticks can be served with the cocktail or it can be served alone.

America's Comfortable Shoes for Women --

Ordinary shoes haven't helped you. Now try Wilbur Coon Shoes. Their entirely different idea in fitting has brought comfort and ease to feet that never knew peace before.

Wilbur Coon Shoes grip your foot securely through instep, waist and heel. Your foot doesn't work forward. The bones don't cramp and ache. You actually enjoy again the pleasure of walking. Special measurements for the unusual foot—narrow heel, slim instep, oversize ball, etc.

For 33 years Wilbur Coon Shoes have specialized in fitting the foot comfortably. Yet outwardly Wilbur Coon Shoes are as attractive as shoes made for style alone. Come—Try on a pair.
